Distance Running Tips & Information

Before the Run

- Properly hydrate yourself: Being hydrated starts a week before the run "Thirsty people feel more pain". Drink a lot of water. If you are old enough to drink alcohol (!) try not to have more than one pint at a time in the days leading up to the run. Better still, avoid alcohol completely, since it has a dehydrating effect and can also interfere with your sleep. Limiting coffee is also a good idea.
- Eat Sensibly: Eat a diet rich in complex carbohydrates (whole-grain breads, pasta, and cereals). In the week before the run, about 65-70% of your calories should come from carbs. NB. Individuals who have diabetes should never carb load and should consult a dietician for appropriate dietary guidelines.
- Sleep well on Friday: Sleep generally has a lag time of about 36 hours. Sleeping poorly two days before the run will be much worse than sleeping poorly the night before. If you do toss and turn on Saturday night do not let it phase you on the starting line. Just remember that you are still ready to go.
- Footwear and Feet: Don't wear new shoes on the run. Wear a pair that you have worn frequently (as long as they did not create any problems). Check your toenails and clip any that are too long. Keeping your toenails neat and short will prevent them from hitting the front of your shoes, which can lead to bloody or black toenails.
- Comfort and attire: After the feet, most self-inflicted injuries occur from friction rubbing (e.g. nipple and groin etc.) or from lack of warm-up exercises. Whilst fun runners are encouraged to wear fancy dress if they so wish, all participants should consider how comfortable their attire will be for the duration of the run and ensure they warm-up their muscles during practices and immediately before the start of the run.

The Run...

- Practice starting slow: On race day avoid getting caught up in the excitement and running too fast at the beginning. If you feel good after the first few miles pick up the pace and try to maintain it. When you feel fatigued, swing your arms harder to help keep momentum.
- Hydration: Drink during the run and don't wait until you are thirsty, by then it is too late...
- Crossing the Line: Finish with a smile on your face. Someone might be taking your photograph...!
- St John Ambulance will be in attendance throughout all events.
- Water will be available at 3, 6 and 8 mile markers for the 10 mile run. Walkers will be able to collect water at the 6 and 8 mile markers
- Refreshment bags will be available for all at the finish.
- The Beach Hotel is open for anyone to use the facilities either en route or for the start of the 2 mile.

After the Run

- Recovery: Generally, it takes a minimum of one to two weeks for the body to recover from the strain of running 10 miles. Return to normal training too quickly and you increase your risk of injury. The determining factor is not how quickly your body recovers, but how quickly your mind recovers. Olympic champion Frank Shorter expresses it well when he says "You're not ready to run another marathon until you've forgotten the last one."
- Refuel: Replenish carbohydrates. There is a 2-hour window following a hard effort, during which absorption of carbohydrates may be enhanced. If you can't eat them, then drink them. A little protein mixed in, improves recovery. Do not choose anything extremely high in sugar or fat, it will cause stomach upset.
- Training: The training you do in the three weeks following the run should be a near mirror of what you did the last three weeks before. Your eating after the run should also mirror your eating before, since a diet high in carbohydrates can help refuel your muscles as well as fuel them.

To enjoy the run and fully reap the rewards of such physical effort, be a good scout and
